

Working On the Railroad

Consider that you have a straight, one mile long piece of railing. You then increase the length of this rail by one inch, and squeeze it into the same mile distance such that it bends off in a circular arc. There is a maximum distance it will deviate from the straight path. What is this distance?

