

Balloon in Space

A helium-filled balloon floats inside a closed container filled with air at STP in interstellar space. The container accelerates in a given direction, with acceleration equal to that due to gravity at the surface of the Earth. Which way does the balloon move relative to the acceleration? Explain your answer.