

---

Model a naval combat scenario using software provided by Lockheed Martin. Develop a system design and upon approval, develop the software design (C++). After building a successful model, perform a Monte Carlo simulation to perform a cost-benefit analysis and determine optimal input parameters.

---